Chamber of Commerce

The meaning of "Chamber of Commerce and its intentions is apparent to nearly all and although easily understood yet there are a few sceptics, critics or knockers as you choose to call them who do not understand or do not want to understand its purposes and indeavours, its impartial attitude to all political parties and its disregard of politics in its intirety.

To such we speak that they have no cause for complaint. We have been asked many times: "What is this Chamber of Commerce and what does it intend to do?" We always reply that the Chamber is a body of men organized for the purpose of promoting Sonoma valley—not Sonoma alone but the entire valley and the chamber is not partial to any portion of it. And to the query as to where all this promotion money is to come from we have stated that it will be contributed by the citizens who stand ready to donate the sum of $1.50 per quarter as their dues for that amount of time. This money will be used in placing the fruits of our valley on exhibit, the monthly allotment of our portion of the expenses of the advertising cars which will tour the east in behalf of the North Bay Counties Association with which the local chamber is affiliated, and for the production and distribution of literature, and will do all in their power to help in the upbuilding of this valley. We do not believe it will be necessary for this body of men to offer inducements to prospective residents for nature has favored us far beyond expectations and Sonoma valley stands out more prominently than any other valley and offers the best of inducements, those that nature gave us, permanent and irrevocable.

Every citizen should respond with his support and his dues and paltry excuses should not be forthcoming for not paying this small sum for the development of this valley and the raise in price of your own property. And while it is desired that all members attend the meetings yet inability to do so leaves you with a very flimsy excuse. You should show your appreciation of the chamber's efforts in your behalf by at least sending in your dues.

The chamber has started off with a membership of sixty and it would do you good to see the harmony in which its members work, and we predict that this organization is with us to stay.

In conclusion we would add that a wrong impression has been passed around to the effect that it is necessary for an invitation to be received before one can join this order. Such is not the case. Any man becomes a member by paying his first quarter's dues.

Term Soon To Expire

On August 17th the term of former Senator Harry Bunker of San Francisco, the convicted boodler, will expire. Bunker has been out on parole several months and has been conducting a business in San Francisco. He was sent to San Quentin prison about three and a half years ago upon a charge of accepting a bribe while a member of the legislature. While at the penetentary he was an exemplary prisoner and was paroled by the Prison Directors.

Former Senator Emmons, who was convicted about the same time is still serving time in San Quentin. He has several years yet to serve as he delayed beginning his sentence while his case was on appeal.

The Spanish authorities have decided to censor all news regarding the Morroccan war. An entire edition of several newspapers has been confiscated. Several people were arrested during the rioting when the troups departed from Madrid and are charged with sedition. They will be tried before a court martial.

A large crew of Southern Pacific railroad surveyors are now busy surveying out a line to connect the Fort Bragg railroad with the Northwestern Pacific at Willits. To make the junction it will be necessary to bore a long tunnel through the dividing range of mountains. All rights of way have been secured.

Death of Walter Corbaley

The many friends of Walter Corbaley were shocked to learn of his sudden death in Santa Rosa last Sunday morning from a stroke of apoplexy at a hotel in that city.

Only a few hours previous he was seated with a number of Sonoma friends and brother Odd Fellows at the banquet table in Bower's hall on the night of the great celebration of that order and was merry as any, but upon the return to his room in company with L. O. Allison, his room mate for the night he complained of a terrible pain at the base of the brain. Later Mr. Allison was awakened to find Mr. Corbaley in a very critical condition and immediately summoned medical aid and before the doc or reached the bedside death's messenger had called him into the unknown.

Mr. Corbaley was known by every resident in this valley and leaves a host of friends to mourn their loss and who extend their sympathies to the bereaved ones. He was a conductor on the Northwestern Pacific and had the run from Glen Ellen to Tiburon for a great many years and made many friends along the entire line. Several months ago he resigned this position and moved to Berkeley where he had business interests.

He was a native of Indiana, where he was born in 1868. He is survived by a son, Arthur, 14 years old and aged mother. He was a cousin of Mrs. W. J. Hunter, wife of Supt. Hunter, of the N. W. P. Ry.

The remains were taken to the parlors of Lafferty & Smith and an inquest held, the verdict being that death was due to apoplexy.

His remains were taken to Oakland and cremated.

Gold Yield Decreasing

According to the figures furnished by the Geological Survey the total mineral output in Alaska in 1898 was estimated at $19,605,000, a decrease of $1,271,711 as compared with the output in 1907. Of the total output gold is estimated at $18,600,000, copper, silver, etc., composing the balance. The value of the total output of minerals in Alaska since 1880, when mining first began is given at $148,000,000 of of which gold composed $143,000,000, copper, 4,100,000; silver, 1,150,000, the balance representing the value of the marble, gypsum, tin and coal products.

Mining in Alaska was not prosperous in 1908, owing to causes affecting the mining industry everywhere, and to certain conditions peculiar too the northern territory. Gold placer mining, which was only slightly affected by the financial depression, experienced a decided setback because of the drought which prevailed throughout the summer months in nearly all the important districts, causing a reduction in the output of placer gold. Had it not been for this shortage of water the placer output would have far exceeded that of 1907. In spite of the business depression, the report adds, the production of the auriferous lode mines of the territory in 1908 was about 27 per cent greater than in 1907.

Take No Chances

It is a grewsomely interesting fact that the Wright brothers never fly together. The reason is simple. An accident such as occurred last summer, when Orville Wright and Lieutenant Selfridge were precipitated to the earth, might kill both brothers. This is a tragedy they are guarding against.

The Wright brothers are a close corporation, and they have not communicated to everybody the scientific discoveries made during their long investigations of the problems of aerial navigation. If both should be killed by an untimely accident their secret would die with them and they have wisely decided not to risk an annihation at a single disaster. They are unemotional young men and realize that death may overcome them at any time. They declare that should it come death will visit them singly.

Odd Fellows Celebrate

Odd Fellowship was supreme in Santa Rosa last Saturday night. Hundreds of men and women marched through the streets to the music of bands, while thousands of people lined the sidewalks and witnessed the mammoth parade, which was immediately followed by the great gathering in the Rink Pavilion, the literary and musical program, followed by the dancing and banquet served in Bower's hall, adjoining, the conferring of the "Oriental degree" in Masonic Temple.

"The Traveler" was presented by Past Master Frederickson, whose address was very patriotic and caused much applause.

"The Traveler" was received by Hon. A. G. Burnett He made an eloquent speech and brough forcibly to the minds of those present the sentiment and teachings of the order.

Over 2,000 persons were served at the splendid banquet with the ladies of Oakleaf Rebekah lodge waiting upon the tables. 600 were seated at a time.

The Sonoma lodges were well represented and all returned thoroughly satisfied with their trip and report a most enjoyable evening.

FRIDAY, JULY 30, 1909.

Louis Bleirot flew across the English channel last Sunday morning from Calais to the cliffs of Dover, a distance of 23 miles in 25 minutes. The conditions were extremely favorable and the two torpedo boats which were to accompany him were left far behind. Lathan was to make his second trip Monday, but in order to secure the honor of being the first to make the flight, Bleirot decided to make the trip Sunday.

It is evident that people seeking rest and recreation have not forgotten Sonoma valley this year as there are now about six thousand people here seeking to recuperate All resorts are crowded to full capacity and many families are entertaining relatives and friends from other places. Sonoma valley will always have large crowds during the summer season for it is the garden spot of California, the best place for the invalid with his aches and pains to recover his health and for the robust to enjoy themselves 'neath our shady nooks and bowers, modeled by nature's hand, abounding everywhere, and the days with just enough breeze to make them delightful. The weary and sick soon find life and vigor while with us.

The curative waters of our famous springs chase disease away and many a man, woman and child have reason to thank their maker for their trip to our valley and the benefit they have received.

Need Literature

W. T. Buchanan is the managing editor of Iowa's greatest daily, "The Capitol," and his following remarks, which we clip from the Press-Democrat, show what we have long contended--that we must produce literature and distribute the same throughout the east and middle west.

"The middle west is land hungry. All of the interior country has been settled up. Farmers' sons are seeking new fields for their operations. No matter where the land is located the course of the thousands of young men who are entering the market for a plot of land is sure to find it in the end. It may take time for Sonoma county to reach its full fruitation, but it will reach there just the same. It is a glorious county, and if the citizens here would spend their money cheerfully in advertising the the products and advantages, land would double in value and fortunes would be made where only a competence seems possible at the present moment. I am a believer in advertising. I can see no difference in advertising a county than in advertising the goods on the shelf. The community that first advertises its 'goods for sale' is sure to get the trend of population as it moves westward. Each county in California is a competitor of the other. Each believes it is the best field for the settler. The county that can give the best picture of what is possible is the place which will get the business, just as the merchant will get the business if he advertises his goods at the right price and has the goods he advertises. My advice for Sonoma county is to put her money in literature and cover the middle west.

"You have the goods. The only thing that remains is to make the world see the truth. It costs money, but it will pay ten fold when the time comes to count the cash."

Convent School Opens

The Convent schools will re open next Monday, August 2nd. The request is made that all pupils will be in prompt attendance to open the term successfully.

Wedding Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Batto received their friends at the romantic home of the bride's parents near Vineburg on Sunday, July 25, 09.

The guests were received by the bride and groom assisted by the bridesmaid, Miss Mary Batto, and the best man, Chas. Groskopf. About seventy-five people joined in the festivities, composed of invited guests from San Francisco and residents of Sonoma valley. An elaborate dinner was served under shade trees in the open air, which reflected great credit on the ladies in charge. Dancing and various games were indulged in during the afternoon. The music was furnished by Prof. Henry Forni, of Vineburg, who proved himself a perfect master of the accordian.

James B. Small, president of the Jasper Club, of Vineburg, of which club Mr. Batto is a popular member, was speaker of the day and delivered a short and witty address, which kept his hearers roaring with laughter. Mr. Small also entertained the company during the afternoon and evening with songs and monologues. His song "Migel Snyder's Party," made a great hit.

The happy couple were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents

The reception closed at 11 p. m., after all present had enjoyed themselves to their hearts content.

Q.

Out on Bail

George L. Burgess, who was arrested last week by Deputy Sheriff Jos. F. Ryan, charged with the embezzlement of a horse, account of which was published in these columns last week, has been released on bail. A relative of the accused furnished the sum of $135 in cash on Tuesday and secured the release of the man from the custody of the sheriff. Burgess is accused of having taken a horse belonging to a Mr. Slattery of Bloomfield, and failing to return the animal. Burgess claims that the animal escaped from him and that he tendered Slattery a check for $50 in payment for the horse, which was accepted. The case was set for trial before Justice N. King at Petaluma on August 5.

Johnson Place Sold.

Final arrangements have been mada whereby the beautiful home of Captain and Mrs. Johnson in Buena Vista has been sold to C. Rasmmsen, of Loleta, Humboldt Co., and possession will be given this fall.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Miss Bella are sorry to learn of their intended departure. Mr. Johnson and family have lived in this valley for the past 16 years and during that time made many friends, who, were it possible, would pursuade them to remain, for they will be missed and we can only hope city life will not compare with the the quiet and enjoyable life they must have had on the Johnson farm, and will return to Sonoma. And while we regret the departure of this family we welcome Mr. Rasummsen and family to our valley. May your anticipations and hopes be fulfilled and may you realize you have landed in the garden of Eden and remain with us through life.

Mr. Johnson and family will move to the city in about two months, where they intend to reside permanently.

Why He Was Not Annoyed

A New Yorker, who paid a visit last summer to a Keatucky planter had his slumbers disturbed by mosquitoes. When he mentioned this to his host the latter declared that they never annoyed him.

The next day he commented upon this fact to the colonel's negro valet who accounted for the phenomenon this way:

"De fust part ob de night de kurnel am so drunk dat he don't feel de skeeters, an' de las' part ob de night de skeeters am so drunk dat they don't bodder the kurnel."

County Clerk Fred L. Wright has received two boxes of the Statutes and amendments to the Code 1909 and the extra session, 1907. These consist of the laws passed by the legislatures of the two years mentioned. One has been received for each of the judges, each of the county officials and each of the justices of the peace of the county. The books are now being distributed to those entitled to them.

Important Arrest

United States Immigration Inspector de la Torre made a very important arrest Tuesday in El Verano when he arrested Italia Regiano and Pepine Pietra, until recently said to be brothel agents in San Francisco. The couple were taken to San Francisco and placed under $10,000 bonds each by Commissioner Hart North to prevent their escape.

A "black hand" letter addressed to Antonio Monpellier, a San Francisco photographer and husband of Angelina Regiano, a 20-year old girl, who was brought to this country two years ago and forced into an improper life by her sister and her paramour until rescued by her marriage, has resulted in the capture of the miscreants who planned the girl's downfall. On July 13 she escaped from her bondage, and according to the details learned, mannaged to elude the pursuit of her jailers. While in hiding she met Antonio Montpellier, and her pitiful touched his heart. They were married and threats against the life of the husband immediately followed.

On July 4th Monpellier received a letter threatening his life unless he surrendered his wife to Pietra. This he placed in the hands of Inspector de la Torre and the capture of those who instigated it was quickly made.

The federal authorities believe they hava accumulated enough evidence to send the pair to prison for five years.

Unfortunately the victim herself comes within the specifications of the law and is being held by the authorities under the statute which forbids female immigrants leading an improper life within three years The poor girl states that while in her home town of Patenza she received urgent letters from her sister, Italia, to come to American, where she was promised marriage as soon as she arrived. When she came, however, her sister and Pietra beat her into submission and forced her into a disreputable life in New York. There she was held in practical slavery until the couple moved to this city, where her state was not improved. Finally she escaped, but found that her troubles were not ended even when she met the man who is now her husband.

The management at the Spring is sparing no pains to give the public the best that is obtainable. The Petaluma Courier says: "Ruddy Litchenburg of Boyes Springs was very anxious that Doc. Phillips should take his Colts over to that popular resort on Sunday, but owing to the game in Petaluma on that day with the Y. M. I. of San Francisco it was impossible to comply with his request. Doc did the next best thing and arranged a game between Vallejo and the fast Barney Frankels of San Francisco for Boyes Springs on Sunday."

The schooner Four Sisters, in command of Captain Larkin, is again making trips to Sonoma valley points. Commencing last Sunday the Four Sisters will make a trip every other day to San Francisco. Captain Larkin states that he will make daily trips from local points to the metropolis providing the fruit shippers furnish him with sufficient business. The fruit growers of this section will appreciate the enterprise of the owners of the Four Sisters, as they will be able to get their product to market at a saving of freight, but will also be able to get a higher price for their fruit, as shipments by water reach their destination in better condition than that sent by rail.

Monday night Charles Cutter was awakened from his slumbers by a commotion in his chicken yard, supposed to be made by a chicken thief. Upon investigating he found the thief gone and his valuable hunting dog lying in the yard with a broken leg. He carried the dog into the house. Charlie drove immediately to town and had the wound dressed by Dr. Hayes, thus taking the necessary precautions against blood poisoning. He is all right now and the wound nearly healed.

FACE TO FACE.

A New Problem For Women.

In the looking-glass a woman often sees wrinkles, hollow circles under the eyes, crow's feet—all because she did not turn to the right remedy when worn down with those troubles which are distinctly feminine. Backache, lassitude, nervousness and the pains and drains of womanhood bring such untold suffering that the face is sure to show it.

Every woman, young or old, is well protected from the blues, nervousness, backache, and the many symptoms of disease so prevalent among our women—if they will conscientiously take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a safe and sure remedy for the ills of womanhood, because it contains not a particle of alcohol, digitalis or any deleterious drugs. Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by this splendid prescription which was used by Doctor Pierce in his large private practice in the specialty of women's diseases. Every woman troubled in this way should write him about her case, care of Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality they are only symptoms caused by some womb disease. The physician ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages this practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse, by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said that "a disease known is half cured." In cases almost innumerable, after all other medicines had failed to help and doctors had said there was no cure possible, the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, supplemented, when necessary, by the medical advice and counsel of Dr. Pierce, has resulted in a perfect and permanent cure.

THE SECRET OUT.

To refute the many false and malicious attacks, bogus formulas and other untruthful statements published concerning Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines, the Doctor has decided to publish all the ingredients entering into them and place the same on the wrapper inclosing each bottle. The exact working formula for making these medicines cost Dr. Pierce and his collaborating Chemists and Pharmacists many years of study and experiments, but as perfected they produce almost perfect pharmaceutical compounds, embodying all the active, medicinal principles residing in the ingredients employed, and preserving them perfectly for any length of time and in any climate without the use of a drop of alcohol

Pierce's Pleasant Pellets These are the Original Little Liver Pills, first put up over 40 years ago, by old Dr. R. V. Pierce. They've been much imitated but never equaled. Smallest, easiest to take and best. They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts. Without disturbance or trouble, constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick and bilious headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured. Permanently cured, too, by their mild and natural action, these little Pellets gently lead the system into natural ways again. Their influence lasts.

A LESSON IN DETECTIVE WORK.

[Original.]

How did I happen to go into the detective line? I was put in it by a singular coincidence. I had no more idea of being a detective than being president of the United States. I never developed any fancy for such work, never read detective stories or took any interest in the methods of how real cases were managed. What I did hear of such matters they filled me with a belief that this business of noticing how far a match was burned or which end of a cigarette was lighted first to gain a clew had nothing to do with tracing criminals.

One day I was in a street car going home from a bank where I was employed on a fairly good salary when I saw a man fumble in his pocket for change to pay his fare. A few minutes later a woman picked up a folded bill off the floor and handed it to him, asking him if he hadn't dropped it. He unfolded it, cast a glance at it, paled slightly and handed it back to her in a hurry, denying the ownership. The woman asked one or two people sitting near if they had dropped it, but they all said they thought they had not. I asked the woman to let me see it. It didn't take me long, backed by my banking experience, to decide that it was counterfeit.

This was the first time I ever showed a faculty for detective work. I noticed that no one showed any unusual emotion in looking at the bill except the man who was supposed to have dropped it; therefore there was a probability that he was a counterfeiter. But I said nothing, simply handing it back to the woman.

But my curiosity had been aroused. Curious to follow up the matter, when the man who had paled got out I got out, too, and followed him at a distance. He entered a hardware store, where he purchased several articles. I didn't know what they were, but one of them was a hammer with a big end suitable for beating anything flat. Another was a crucible for melting metals. When he went out I snatched the bill he had paid the salesman, expecting to see a counterfeit, but in this I was disappointed. It was good money.

Well, I tracked the fellow to a room at the top of a business building, where he had a shop. I knocked at the door. He opened it, but did not bid me enter. I told him I had something to say to him and wished to go inside. He said he was making a certain contrivance that was not yet patented and no one was allowed to enter the premises where the work was done.

Mind you, I was no detective. I was merely indulging my curiosity. A detective would have gone away and come again prepared to act as an officer of the law. I simply accused the man of counterfeiting, stating what I had seen in the car.

He stood looking at me a few moments appalled, then said, "What's Moll Brown going to give you for helping her?"

"I don't know Moll Brown," I replied, "and I'm in no one's employ in this matter. I'm only doing it for fun."

"Come in here and satisfy yourself," he said.

I went in and found an article for sweeping floors manufactured and in process of making. Then he explained:

"Moll Brown was the woman who tried to fix the counterfeit bill on me. I was intimate with her once and was to have married her, but I found out she was bad and shook her. She's sworn to have her revenge."

Resolved to follow the matter up, I took Moll Brown's address. I felt sure she had got the counterfeit bill from some one interested in making or passing it, or both, and couldn't refrain from getting at the bottom of the matter. I cooked up a reason for making her acquaintance and went to see her. At this point I began some real detective work. I got her confidence and told her that I was looking for some easy way of making money. After a good deal of beating about the bush she agreed to tell me where I could get some "queer" to put out and gave me the address of the man I had shadowed. I didn't want any better proof of his story. She was bent on his ruin and would have included me if it suited her convenience. I delayed about going to the man she named and continued to watch her.

Accident helped me. One evening when I visited her a man called on her whom I spotted at once. I went away, leaving him with her, and when he came out shadowed him. He went to a place that I fancied, putting this and that together, might be a den of counterfeiters. I put the police on to the matter. They surrounded the building where the supposed den was, then closed in and, sure enough, trapped a party at work making spurious bills.

If the woman in their secret had not been bent on getting revenge, they might all have been making false money to this day. The woman was convicted with the rest, and the man she tried to injure was the most grateful fellow to me you ever saw. As for me—well, having got a taste for detective work, I accepted a position in an agency.

The case has influenced all my subsequent work. I never consider a clew, especially one that seems very plain, of much value until I have proved it to be such. What I rely on most is the want of stamina among those who are guilty of crime in standing by each other. Another valuable lesson I learned from the case is that revenge often plays an important part in fixing crime both where it is and where it is not.

HIS MISTAKE.

It Was Costly, but Cured Him of an Irritating Habit.

Bunsen was always a great kidder. He isn't any more.

Bunsen is a lawyer, although, of course, he is known by a different name. Don't ever get the idea, though, that this didn't really happen just because Bunsen's real nomination isn't mentioned.

As we were saying, Bunsen used to be pretty much of a kidder. He would even kid his own patient little wife. Those who care to read on down a little farther will learn why he ceased to be a kidder.

One evening last week when Bunsen got home his wife had a new hat to show him. It was some hat. Anybody could have seen that it was the final phrase in female headgear.

But Bunsen started in to make fun of it. He said it looked as if it had been trimmed by a cross eyed milliner on an empty stomach. And he made a lot of other disparaging remarks that were extremely harassing to poor Mrs. Bunsen.

"D'je buy it sight unseen?" he inquired. "Say, how much do they pay the girl that sold you that? She ought to have a raise. Any girl who could put that one over a customer must be something of a smooth saleslady, I'm here to remark."

Mrs. Bunsen was almost in tears. Bunsen had to go into the other room to have a quiet laugh at her expense. Oh, he was the great kidder, all right.

The next day, though, he had forgotten all about the hat.

The day after that he was reminded of his little jokefest. Mrs. Bunsen handed him a slip of paper when he came home to get his victuals that evening. It was a bill for retrimming that hat; $18.24 it came to.

Take Hill's Family Pills for constipation.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy.

At a little dinner the other evening one of the guests said: "Can any of you tell me why it is when a horse falls down nobody laughs, but when a man falls down every body laughs?" Silence for a moment and then came the answer: "Why that's easy, the man gets the horse laugh."

The men in this store try to give me the horse laugh once in a while. A tourist was buying a bill of goods the other day. He bought a swell suit, a Stetson hat, some linen under wear, some shirts, etc., and while the bill was being settled he came over to where I was standing and said: "If a man buys a bill of goods from a firm out here and they don't give satisfaction, would the firm give him his money back?"

"You bet we will; that was the way this busines was built," I replied. "Its the man who came back who made this business." We pleased the man by giving him value not by what we told him—he'd forgot that as soon as he left the store—but by what we sold him. It is the clothes we sell that brings the man back—not for his money but for more of the same kind of clothes. We don't expect to do all the business in the town. We only expect to have the best trade because our methods entitle us to it.
